Morning and evening Adonis

Once upon a time ,there lived a man and a woman ,together with their beloved boy.One day ,the boy heard about an enchanted spring that gave eternal yputh to whom ever drank from it ,so he decided to go and find it.

His parents tried to stop him ,but his wish was to big for him to gave up hinding the spring.So he started his journey .After a whilehe reaches a large oak forest,where he met a wolf who asked him where is he going .The boy answered saying that he is looking for the eternal youth spring .

He continued his journey until two cute girls apeared in front of him ,from a garden and asked him where is her going.

The boy refused the two girls and he continued his journey for the eternal youth spring, until he discovered a wonderful castle. In this castle there was a fairy. When the fairy found out where the boy was going and what was he looking for, she told him that this was the end of the road, because she will show him the spring. He will have to, in return, not to disobey her wishes. The boy agreed and she showed him the spring. He drank and he became forever young.

Years passed, they were happy, but one day, the boy passed the land and ended up at Remember lake. He remembered his parents, his village and he kissed the Fairy goodbye and he left.

When he arrived at the place where his home once was,he started to cry! but someone was waiting for him :his death who was already old !

The boy ran to the Fairy castle ,with his death on his back .When he was there ,the fairy took his hand ,the death took his leg and started arguing for his life.

-He will belong to the one who will catch him once i will make him an golden apple,said the fairy.

But the apple has not returned from the sky ,becoming the Night Adonis.The fairy turned her self into an apple ,becoming the Morning Adonis.

The death is still waiting for the apple to fall from the sky and the people remember seeing those two stars about the love they had for one another!
